December, 2003

Greetings from Gallaudet University!

It is a pleasure to join in welcoming each of you to the Clerc Classic IV.

I am confident that this year's national classic at the Indiana School for the Deaf will be a good opportunity for the teams and cheerleaders to compete as well as to have fun.

I wish you all an enjoyable basketball tournament and cheerleading competition.

Sincerely,

I. King Jordan

Welcome to the Clerc Classic IV December 11 – 13, 2003

It is with great pleasure to extend a warm welcome to all who have gathered for the Clerc Classic IV, hosted by the Indiana School for the Deaf. Welcome to Indiana and to Indianapolis, the Cross-roads of America and the State of Hoosier Hospitality.

This event is a wonderful opportunity to bring Schools for the Deaf together for an outstanding tournament, build relationships and interact with Deaf and Hard of Hearing people throughout America. We are excited to have eight teams from across the country participating in this tournament and look forward to some great competition.

The ISD Community is pleased to offer its hospitality and hopes that each of you has a memorable experience. We are thrilled that you are here to participate in this national competition and wish the best to every individual, team and squad.

Good Luck!

George M. Stailey

History of Clerc

The Clerc Classic Tournament originated at the Model Secondary School for the Deaf in 2000 under Athletic Director, Mike Weinstock, who envisioned a national basketball tournament bringing together outstanding athletes from top Deaf schools to one site and let them claim the championship. The tournament is now again happening this time here in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Who is this man, Laurent Clerc, for whom this tournament is named after? It is time to learn more about this remarkable man.

Clerc was born on December 26, 1785. An accident struck him at a young age; one side of his face was burnt after he fell into a fireplace. The fever resulting from the burn ended with Clerc becoming Deaf.

Clerc had such devoted parents who sought various medicinal cures before learning about the Royal Institution for the Deaf in Paris, France. Clerc's parents enrolled him at the school where he was put under the guidance of the school's director, Abbe Roche-Ambroise Sicard. The school utilized sign language as the language of instruction which allowed many of Clerc's hidden talents to emerge.

Gallaudet University Archives

Clerc completed his study in seven years and was rewarded with the position of assistant teacher, in charge of the highest class at the Institution. He eventually moved up as teacher.

An event happened in 1816 during Clerc's eighth year of teaching which changed his life forever. He met a young idealist from America, Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, who was searching for an educational system for the Deaf. Gallaudet then observed Clerc working with students during numerous situations. Gallaudet ultimately asked Clerc to help him establish the first school for the Deaf in America.

Clerc accepted and bade farewell to his family, friends, and boss. Gallaudet and Clerc set sail from France on June 18, 1816. During the 52-day voyage, they continued to share their knowledge with each other.

Upon arrival in America, Clerc and Gallaudet began fundraising efforts by having Clerc present on instruction methods for the Deaf with Gallaudet assisting as interpreter. They traveled along the east coast, from Boston to Philadelphia, for nearly seven months. They taught and interviewed parents of Deaf children, garnering community support at the same time.

Their efforts paid off with the establishment of the first school for the Deaf in Hartford, Connecticut on April 15, 1817. Clerc taught there for the next 41 years providing lessons in sign language and teacher training.

Clerc married a former pupil, Elizabeth Broadman, and fathered four children. Clerc passed away on July 18, 1869.

Our lives as Deaf people nowadays would not have been possible without Laurent Clerc. As the first Deaf teacher in America, he contributed greatly towards the development of our language, American Sign Language and our education!
